Dustin Sims has a gift for finding the one detail in a perfectly normal situation that should have been left alone. Then he spends the next ten minutes explaining why it's everybody else's fault.

Raised in Muscadine, Alabama, Dustin has built an audience of more than 2 million followers and over a billion lifetime views across social media. His comedy turns family arguments, relationship logic, small-town characters, and his own questionable decisions into stories that keep finding another gear.

The appeal is in how his mind works: Dustin doesn't just tell you what happened. He makes you understand why he got hung up on the wrong damn part. His live shows bring that same sharp, unfiltered perspective to the stage, with the room becoming part of the conversation.

Dustin tours nationally and created Redneck Rendezvous, a tour built around spending a week in a small town before the Saturday comedy show. He arrives as the comedian. By showtime, he knows who everybody's mad at.

Bad decisions. Good stories. And a man who would very much like you to hear his side.
